Free e-learning and materials on the topic of data protection

With the "GDPRism" project, we want to support organisations and employees in adult education as well as all interested parties in the data protection-compliant planning and implementation of projects.

Our free online course on data protection is now available to all interested parties.

What can you expect from our course?

As a "basic data protection course", our training initially offers an introduction to the topic and explains the most important regulations of the European General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR).

In the second module, "Data protection in practice", we then transfer this theoretical knowledge into practice using classic use cases. This is done using the example of specific issues during project preparation, project implementation and project follow-up.

Finally, in our third module "Tools and Tools", you will find a range of different templates and checklists for free use. These documents support you in putting what you have learnt directly into practice. Among other things, you will find templates for documenting your own processing activities, information sheets and templates for creating data protection notices and obtaining consent for the processing of personal data, as well as templates for carrying out risk analyses.

In the "Tools and Tools" module, you will also find a list of various online services for different use cases with an initial data protection assessment.

The complete e-learning is currently available in three languages: German, English and Greek.

How can I use the course?

Registration for our course is free of charge.

You can register free of charge at <https://moodle.gdprism.eu/>.

Free project presentations and LTTA on 26/02/2024

At the end of the project, we are offering a series of open online appointments during which we will provide a brief insight into the project. We will talk about the background to the project, but also present the structure and content of the free online course and show you how to register and find your way around the online platform so that you are able to work through the relevant content on your own.

Furthermore, the Greek partner in Greece offers an LTTA. Interested persons and organisations are welcome to contact us by e-mail:

Interested persons and organisations are welcome to register for the LTTA on 26.02.2024 (Learning, Teaching, Training, Activity) by e-mail at: contact@educommart.org
